Virginia Project announces Virginia Election Integrity Audit initiative

Alexandria, VA – The Virginia Project, a state PAC dedicated to the support and development of Republican Party of Virginia unit committees, is building a team of lawyers, investigators, auditors and IT specialists to investigate mounting evidence of reporting error and suspected voter fraud in the state of Virginia.

The intention of this initiative, The Virginia Election Integrity Audit, is to verify the integrity of Virginia's voting systems and processes, to find errors and fraud and provide the evidentiary basis to correct them.

The assembled team of experienced professionals will perform comprehensive fraud detection and validation of the integrity of all aspects of the manner in which Virginia's elections are conducted.

“Virginians deserve to know the full truth about the integrity of their elections,” stated David Gordon, founder of the Virginia Project. “We will find out everything there is to know and make every detail public, the good, the bad and the ugly. Whatever the truth is, we will find it and say it. If the truth is that there was no fraud, although highly unlikely, then we'll have numbers to demonstrate the claim. If the truth is that there was fraud, we will publicize the facts and prove to millions of Virginians that their right to free and fair elections, a prerequisite to meet the Constitution's standard of a republican form of government, has been betrayed.”

The Virginia Project expects to have initial data available for public review by November 18, 2020.
